

For many years we have paid the additional fee to have a private, non-listed, non-published telephone number. Under the current Do Not Call rule, for the first time we are not harrassed by all of the advertisements and sales personnel. If my voice is to be heard, "Leave the rule as it stands." It works, we have peace and quiet. I will inform you of an insident, when I said no to a soliciter. I was degraded, harrassed, and had to have a tap on my telephone to catch the person. He had called representing the Kawanis Club. He was vulgar to my husband, to say the least. The entire family was tramtised. If you change the rule, I will discontinue my in home telephone service, and prompt everyone I know to do the same. Consider that as an option, of my constitutional rights.
